

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Ensuring proper compass and register positioning during printing.

5 Marks are imprinted on a carrying element and at least one sensor is present to detect the marks on the carrying element and a second sensor detects a seam on the carrying element. A control mechanism receives mark values from said first sensor seam values from said second sensor, and discarding mark values when said seam is detected.